

Guidelines for Sales Items, Browsers and Cards – March 2022

Sales items should relate to the artist's practice as relevant to CQW. This may be in design method, techniques, or way of working. An artist who also works in other disciplines (e.g. pottery) should not offer these items.

Cards and browser pieces should follow the same artist's practice remit of relevance to CQW.

Breakable items are discouraged.

Pricing of similar types of product should be discussed by their makers.

Sales items tickets should be white.

Each member to be limited to the contents of one bag or box per exhibition for sales items.

Sales items can be brought to any Show and Tell for discussion.

Sales items must be delivered at the same time as exhibition pieces. This is nominally at the meeting prior to the exhibition.

The Sales Coordinator will deliver them to the venue.

Unsold sales table items should preferably only be displayed at 2 exhibition series.

Browser items should not be behind glass.

At every venue, the display team or stewards may edit, or choose not to display, any items.
